EXAMINATION REPORT - SEPARATE SHEET

International application No. PCT/US00/03456

Re Item V

Reasoned statement under Rule 66.2(a)(ii) with regard to novelty, inventive step or industrial applicability; citations and explanations supporting such statement

The following documents cited are:

D1: WO 99 06466 A (PROCTER & GAMBLE) 11 February 1999 (1999-02-11)

D2: WO 95 05440 A (PROCTER & GAMBLE) 23 February 1995 (1995-02-23)

Novelty:

The subject matter of the independent claims 1 and 2 is not novel since all of the features have been previously disclosed in document D1 cited above. Please see: D1: description, page 1, paragraph 2; page 4, paragraph 4 and page 20, paragraph 1; claim 10; page 19, paragraph 3; page 13 for low foaming nonionic surfactants; pages 3 and 4 for the surfactants with X/Y numbers greater than or equal to zero; and page 4, paragraph 4 for the adjunct ingredients. Therefore the document D1 is completely novelty destroying with respect to the features that are covered in the independent claims 1 and 2.

The subject matter of the dependent claims 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, and 11 is also not novel as all of the features disclosed herein are also covered in document D1. Please see page 3, paragraph 2; page 7, paragraph 2; claim 6; pages 24 and 25 for the bleach catalysts; page 15 for the low cloud point nonionic surfactants; and page 18 for the amine oxide (disclosed in claim 11 of the present application).

The subject matter of the claims 3, 9, 10, and 12 is however novel since these features have not been disclosed in the document D1.

The subject matter of the independent claim 13 is not novel since D1 also relates to compositions used for the washing tableware in an automatic dishwashing machine (see claim 12).

Therefore the claims 1, 2, 4 - 8, 11, and 13 are not novel; and the claims 3, 9, 10, and 12 are considered to be novel. Art. 33(2) PCT.

Inv ntiv St p:

Concerning the presence of an inventive step, the technical problem solved by the present application has been formulated as: "How to provide an automatic dishwashing detergent composition that provides superior spotting reduction benefits without unacceptably high sudsing".

The closest prior art document has been taken to be D1 since this document is also concerned with reducing the amount of sudsing and foam caused by the spray action of the dishwasher, particularly without the use of traditional silicone suds suppressing agents which are not robust enough for use in automatic dishwashing applications, and are expensive, and redeposit on hydrophobic surfaces.

The low foaming nonionic surfactant that is disclosed in the novel claim 3 of the present application is not considered to be an inventive feature since similar structures have been suggested in the closest prior art to achieve the same effects (please see D1, page 13, paragraph 3).

The novel claim 9 is also not considered to be inventive since it appears as if a second suds suppressing agent is being used since the surfactant system itself is intended to be low sudsing and low foaming. Also, suds suppressors are common, well known, commercially available adjunct ingredients that could be used in any reasonable quantity by an expert in the field. In document D2, page 18, lines 1 - 8, the use of low levels of suds suppressors in such low amounts is suggested, and since the compositions of the two documents are very similar, the features disclosed in claim 9 of the present application are not considered to be inventive.

The subject matter of the novel claim 10 is also not inventive since very similar structures have been used in document D2: please see page 3 lines 30+. This would also appear to be an obvious modification to a person skilled in the art in order to arrive at the present invention from the closest prior art.

Finally, the subject matter of the novel claim 12 has not been considered to be inventive since these compounds are extremely similar to those that have been disclosed in the prior art, please see D1: page 7, surfactants, and page 8 paragraph 2; and also in document

These above features could be considered to be inventive if their use exhibits some unexpected improved effect in the decrease of the foaming or improved suds suppression when used in automatic dishwashing machines. As it stands, these novel features do not show any improvement over the prior art.

Therefore the subject matter of claims 1 - 13 is not inventive. Art. 33(3) PCT.

Re Item VII

Certain defects in the international application

Contrary to the requirements of Rule 5.1(a)(ii) of the PCT, the relevant background art disclosed in documents D1 and D2 has not been mentioned in the description, nor are these documents identified therein.

The phrase "... herein incorporated by reference" as used for example in the description on page 3 (line 24), page 9 (line 16), page 18 (lines 3 and 12), and page 25 (line 30), is an expression not to be used since it renders the extent of the protection unclear (Guidelines, PCT/GL/3 III, 4.3a).

Re Item VIII

Certain observations on the international application

The X and Y ratio that is used to describe the non-ionic surfactants has not been disclosed in the claim itself, although it has been covered in the description. The scope of the claim would be made clearer by incorporating this procedure into the claims themselves, although the information from the description has been used to judge the novelty of these claims.

The second claim is also an independent claim although it could be redrafted to be dependent on the main claim, claim 1.

INTERNATIONAL PRELIMINARY
EXAMINATION REPORT - SEPARATE SHEET

International application No. PCT/US00/03456

In claim 2, the interfacial tension parameter that has been used is not a term commonly used in the prior art to describe these particular nonionic surfactants and neither is it been further explained in the description. It has not been covered in the prior art search, and so this feature has been examined considering the nonionic surfactant parameters disclosed in claim 1, and the surfactants disclosed in the description.

NOTES TO FORM PCT/ISA/220

These Notes are intended to give the basic instructions concerning the filing of amendments under article 19. The Notes are based on the requirements of the Patent Cooperation Treaty, the Regulations and the Administrative Instructions under that Treaty. In case of discrepancy between these Notes and those requirements, the latter are applicable. For more detailed information, see also the PCT Applicant's Guide, a publication of WIPO.

In these Notes, "Article", "Rule", and "Section" refer to the provisions of the PCT, the PCT Regulations and the PCT Administrative Instructions respectively.

INSTRUCTIONS CONCERNING AMENDMENTS UNDER ARTICLE 19

The applicant has, after having received the international search report, one opportunity to amend the claims of the international application. It should however be emphasized that, since all parts of the international application (claims, description and drawings) may be amended during the international preliminary examination procedure, there is usually no need to file amendments of the claims under Article 19 except where, e.g. the applicant wants the latter to be published for the purposes of provisional protection or has another reason for amending the claims before international publication. Furthermore, it should be emphasized that provisional protection is available in some States only.

What parts of the International application may be amended?

Under Article 19, only the claims may be amended.

During the international phase, the claims may also be amended (or further amended) under Article 34 before the International Preliminary Examining Authority. The description and drawings may only be amended under Article 34 before the International Examining Authority.

Upon entry into the national phase, all parts of the international application may be amended under Article 28 or, where applicable, Article 41.

When?

Within 2 months from the date of transmittal of the international search report or 16 months from the priority date, whichever time limit expires later. It should be noted, however, that the amendments will be considered as having been received on time if they are received by the International Bureau after the expiration of the applicable time limit but before the completion of the technical preparations for international publication (Rule 46.1).

Where not to file the amendments?

The amendments may only be filed with the International Bureau and not with the receiving Office or the International Searching Authority (Rule 46.2).

Where a demand for international preliminary examination has been/is filed, see below.

How?

Either by cancelling one or more entire claims, by adding one or more new claims or by amending the text of one or more of the claims as filed.

A replacement sheet must be submitted for each sheet of the claims which, on account of an amendment or amendments, differs from the sheet originally filed.

All the claims appearing on a replacement sheet must be numbered in Arabic numerals. Where a claim is cancelled, no renumbering of the other claims is required. In all cases where claims are renumbered, they must be renumbered consecutively (Administrative Instructions, Section 205(b)).

The amendments must be made in the language in which the international application is to be published.

What documents must/may accompany the amendments?

Letter (Section 205(b)):

The amendments must be submitted with a letter.

The letter will not be published with the international application and the amended claims. It should not be confused with the "Statement under Article 19(1)" (see below, under "Statement under Article 19(1)").

The letter must be in English or French, at the choice of the applicant. However, if the language of the international application is English, the letter must be in English; if the language of the international application is French, the letter must be in French.

NOTES TO FORM PCT/ISA/220 (continued)

The letter must indicate the differences between the claims as filed and the claims as amended. It must, in particular, indicate, in connection with each claim appearing in the international application (it being understood that identical indications concerning several claims may be grouped), whether

- (i) the claim is unchanged;
- (ii) the claim is cancelled;
- (iii) the claim is new;
- (iv) the claim replaces one or more claims as filed;
- (v) the claim is the result of the division of a claim as filed.

The following examples illustrate the manner in which amendments must be explained in the accompanying letter:

1. [Where originally there were 48 claims and after amendment of some claims there are 51]:
"Claims 1 to 29, 31, 32, 34, 35, 37 to 48 replaced by amended claims bearing the same numbers; claims 30, 33 and 36 unchanged; new claims 49 to 51 added."
2. [Where originally there were 15 claims and after amendment of all claims there are 11]:
"Claims 1 to 15 replaced by amended claims 1 to 11."
3. [Where originally there were 14 claims and the amendments consist in cancelling some claims and in adding new claims]:
"Claims 1 to 6 and 14 unchanged; claims 7 to 13 cancelled; new claims 15, 16 and 17 added." or
"Claims 7 to 13 cancelled; new claims 15, 16 and 17 added; all other claims unchanged."
4. [Where various kinds of amendments are made]:
"Claims 1-10 unchanged; claims 11 to 13, 18 and 19 cancelled; claims 14, 15 and 16 replaced by amended claim 14; claim 17 subdivided into amended claims 15, 16 and 17; new claims 20 and 21 added."

"Statement under article 19(1)" (Rule 46.4)

The amendments may be accompanied by a statement explaining the amendments and indicating any impact that such amendments might have on the description and the drawings (which cannot be amended under Article 19(1)).

The statement will be published with the international application and the amended claims.

It must be in the language in which the international application is to be published.

It must be brief, not exceeding 500 words if in English or if translated into English.

It should not be confused with and does not replace the letter indicating the differences between the claims as filed and as amended. It must be filed on a separate sheet and must be identified as such by a heading, preferably by using the words "Statement under Article 19(1)."

It may not contain any disparaging comments on the international search report or the relevance of citations contained in that report. Reference to citations, relevant to a given claim, contained in the international search report may be made only in connection with an amendment of that claim.

Consequence if a demand for international preliminary examination has already been filed

If, at the time of filing any amendments under Article 19, a demand for international preliminary examination has already been submitted, the applicant must preferably, at the same time of filing the amendments with the International Bureau, also file a copy of such amendments with the International Preliminary Examining Authority (see Rule 62.2(a), first sentence).

Consequence with regard to translation of the international application for entry into the national phase

The applicant's attention is drawn to the fact that, where upon entry into the national phase, a translation of the claims as amended under Article 19 may have to be furnished to the designated/elected Offices, instead of, or in addition to, the translation of the claims as filed.

For further details on the requirements of each designated/elected Office, see Volume II of the PCT Applicant's Guide.
